Singer's Sewing Machines.—The highest make from the most competent judges. The chitors of the Scientific American, who possess unequalled advanages for knowing everything useful in the way of new twentions, in their paper of Ang. II, in their weekly let of patent claims, in a note appended to a claim of M. Singer for another improvement, remark as follows:—"Mr. Singer has become a Nestor in the dispovery of sewing machine improvements. Hardly a week passes without the issue of one or more new patents to his inventions. His sewing machines have been greatly improved within the past year, until now they are in the highest degree perfect. Himself and partner have already made large fortunes from the sale of these uschines, and their business is rapidly increasing. We are glad if it. No one man has done so much toward the latroduction of these great labor saving machines as based M. Singer. He ought to be well rewarded." To use him encontum from such a quarter we desire to add nothing, except that our machines are exhibited and sold at our offices in New York, Boaton, Newars, Gloversville, Spitimore, Philadelphis, Cheinnati, and New Orleans.

protect any resident or traveller, even in the most sickly or swampy localities, from any ague or billous disease whatever.

It will instantly check the ague in persons who have stiffered for any length of time, from one day to twenty years, so they need never have another chill, by continuing its use according to directions. The patient at once begins to recover appetite and strength, and continues until a permanent and radical cure is effected.

Furthermore, its unvarying efficacy is equalled only by its ringular innocence, and to prove this the following certificate from the most celebrated chemist in the United States is attached to every bottle:

New York, June II, 1855.

I have made a chemical examination of "Rhodes' Fever and Ague Cure," or "Antidote to Malaria," and have tested it for arsenic, mercury, quinine and strychine, but have not found a particle of cither just, nor have Ifound any substance in its composition that would prove injurious to the constitution.

JAMES R. CHILTON, M. D., Chemist, form of the most remarkable cures made in New York have been of persons who have derived only temporary relief from the best of other remedies offered for sale; and I beg leave to suggest to ague sufferers that it is safest to try the only harmless remedly first.
